If these issues challenge your audience, you need Bart Basi. His unparalleled expertise and outstanding speaking skills makes Bart the “go to guy” on finance, tax, and related topics. Offering insight and instruction to a variety of groups in various venues is right down his alley.

Bart has exceptional credentials. Educated at some of the country's finest schools (Syracuse University, University of Louisville, Indiana University, and Stanford University), he holds degrees in accounting, finance, economics and law. Not only a CPA and attorney, Bart is also a retired university professor, a prolific author, and consultant.

Earning only the highest ratings, Bart routinely turns what many might deem as “boring programs” into engaging and enlightening presentations. Following two recent workshops, participants were asked to rate the quality of Bart's programs using a scale of 1-4 (4 being excellent), respondents from the first session gave him a 4.5 and in the second workshop he received a 4.81! You can't beat a speaker who is better than “Excellent!” Here are a sampling of comments received over the years regarding Bart's performance:

- “... I heard only positive things about your session ... And the fact that you spent time on an individual basis with so many members ... phenomenal!”
- “... his presentation style is dynamic, interactive and entertaining. You certainly get your money's worth with Bart.”
- Our members flock to his programs because they know they will get a 'meaty' program full of take-home and 'put into immediate use” tips. I think the real success of a speaker is shown by the number of folks that stay after a presentation to pick his brain and in this case, Bart is like the Pied Piper—they can't get enough of him.”
- “SUPER SUPER DUPER!!! Thanks so much for delivering two highly charged seminars to an attentive audience at the ... all I heard from everyone was how terrific you are and what a polished presentation you deliver.”
- “... you were [our] star performer. Your presentation at the opening session was well received and set the serious tone and mood for two days of productive workshops.”
- “... when taxes once again became the subject of almost every newscast, you were the person we thought of immediately.”
- “... worth the entire expense of the trip.”
